Survivor Stories: Putting it All Together

Below is a medicine wheel, which is used by many Indigenous groups throughout North America. The four quadrants of the medicine wheel can represent many different aspects of life. Below, the quadrants represent the four essential aspects of a person: the emotional, spiritual, mental, and physical.

Instructions: using the information gathered from our sharing circle of survivor stories, add some of the experiences and impacts that the survivors talked about to the appropriate quadrant. An example is provided.
